Subject: Kilarc-Cow Creek Project (FERC Project No. 606)
Response to FERC Additional Information Request in Letter dated March 8, 2010

Dear Secretary Bose:

This letter provides the additional information you requested for the Kilarc-Cow Creek Project (FERC Project No. 606) License Surrender Application that the Pacific Gas and Electric Company (PG&E) filed on March 13, 2009.

In the additional information request dated March 8, 2010, you noted that Commission staff requested tax revenue information from Shasta County and the California State Board of Equalization by letters dated November 16 and December 22, 2009, respectively. As of March 8, 2010, neither the County nor the Board had provided answers to your questions. However, in a recent conversation with Ken Thompson at the State Board of Equalization, we learned that they have prepared and are planning to submit a response. Therefore, in some of our responses below, we defer to the State Board of Equalization.

The response below follows the outline of the items included in your March 8, 2010 letter. For clarity, each response is preceded by the specific request made in the March 8, 2010 letter.

1. How much does PG&E currently pay in taxes to Shasta County for the current operating Kilarc Development?

For the fiscal year 2009/2010, PG&E paid approximately $43,543 in property taxes to Shasta County for the current operations of the Kilarc Development.

2. Please estimate the amount of taxes PG&E would pay to Shasta County for the Kilarc Development should all existing facilities remain in place but not generate electricity (i.e. turbines, generators, and all associated electrical and mechanical equipment associated with the powerhouse would be removed and the powerhouse abandoned in place).

PG&E defers this question to the State Board of Equalization.

3. Please estimate the amount of taxes PG&E would pay Shasta County should all the development's facilities be removed, including North Canyon Creek and South Canyon Creek dams and canals, Kilarc main canal diversion dam, Kilarc main canal, and Kilarc forebay and its associated structures, etc. (Please note that the buried penstock and powerhouse would remain but the turbines, generators, and all associated electrical and mechanical equipment associated with the powerhouse would be removed).

The estimated amount of taxes PG&E would pay to Shasta County shall the development's facilities be removed but the land retained would be approximately $1,996.

4. How much does PG&E currently pay in taxes to Shasta County for the Cow Creek Development as it currently operates?

For the fiscal year 2009/2010, PG&E paid approximately $42,723 in property taxes to Shasta County for the current operations of the Cow Creek Development.

5. Please estimate the amount of taxes PG&E would pay Shasta County for the Cow Creek Development should all the facilities remain in place but not generate electricity (i.e., turbines, generators, and all associated electrical and mechanical equipment associated with the powerhouse would be removed and the powerhouse abandoned in place).

PG&E defers this question to the State Board of Equalization.

6. Please estimate the amount of taxes PG&E would pay Shasta County should all the development's facilities be removed, including Mill Creek diversion dam and canal, South Cow Creek diversion dam, South Cow Creek main canal, and Cow Creek forebay and its associated structures, etc. (Please note that the buried penstock and powerhouse would remain but the turbines, generators, and all associated electrical and mechanical equipment associated with the powerhouse would be removed).

The estimated amount of taxes PG&E would pay to Shasta County shall the development's facilities be removed but the land retained would be approximately $5,187.

7. For the purpose of tax assessment, what value does Shasta County and/or the State of California place on agricultural land used for cattle grazing?

PG&E defers this question to the State Board of Equalization.

All parties that may have an interest in the Project will receive a copy of this letter. This letter will also be made available on the Project website: <http://www.kilarc-cowcreek.com/>.

If you have any questions or need additional information, please do not hesitate to contact me at 415-973-4731.

Sincerely,

Stacy Evans
Project Manager
